

For Immediate Release:

February 13, 2012

Contact: Scott Hughes

(334) 271-7955

ADEM and Alabama A&M Announce Community Training Event on Environmental Issues

The Alabama Department of Environmental Management has partnered with Alabama A&M University to provide an opportunity for local community members to receive training on how to obtain information related to environmental issues within their community. The training event will highlight topics such as how to file an environmental complaint and how to access information about environmental activities within local communities. Local citizens that are interested in environmental issues are invited to attend along with elected officials, students, faculty, and other guests.

WHAT: Training on Environmental Issues Within Local Communities

WHO: Local Community Members;
Alabama A&M University Representatives;
Alabama Department of Environmental Management Representatives

WHEN: Thursday, February 16 from 6:00 p.m. --- 7:30 p.m.

WHERE: Agricultural Research Center Auditorium --- Melody Road
Alabama A&M University Campus
Huntsville, Alabama

#

adem.alabama.gov